

The Ghetto Fighters' House Museum near Acco, already founded in the end of the 1940s by survivors of the ghetto uprising in Warsaw, is currently in a process of transformation and reorientation – in the exhibition as well as in the educational work. These new approaches of the museum are to be displayed elaborately during the workshop and compared to the work of memorials and museums in Germany. The workshop is directed especially to employees and freelancers in memorials, students and scholars of history and adjacent departments as well as opinion makers in the field of memorials and museums.
